Before the Gallant Adventure Fades

"The most wonderful playmate—and treest comrade—that a lucky girl ever had"—that is the characterization of the A. E. F. by Frances Newbold Noyes, a yell-known Washington writer and war worked in France, whose recollections of her eventful days "over there" are vividly told under the caption "My A. E. F." in McClure's for December. The Washington Herald is republishing these pleasing word pletures serially through the convicey of the McClure Publications. By FRANCES NEWBOLD NOYES
